

Crawford Policy Forum

Public Policy Challenges 2010

Tuesday 16 February, 9.00am – 13.30pm

Molonglo Theatre, J G Crawford Building 132, Lennox Crossing, ANU

9.00 – 9.10 Welcome

Chair Tom Kompas, Director, Crawford School of Economics and Government

9.10 – 10.00 After Copenhagen

Frank Jotzo, Copenhagen implications for Australia
Stephen Howes, Climate commitments of China and America
Discussion

10.00 – 10.30 Morning tea – Canberry Room

10.30 – 11.20 New Directions for Government

Bruce Chapman, The Australian government as risk manager
Janine O'Flynn, What's next for the operation of Australian government?
Discussion

11.20 – 12.10 Environment and Public Policy

Quentin Grafton, The economics of water reform in the Murray–Darling Basin
Carolyn Hendriks, Achieving public legitimacy for environmental reforms
Discussion

12.10 – 12.20 Raconteur

Ian Buchanan, Chair of Advisory Council, Crawford School

12.30 – 13.30 Lunch – Canberry Room

Crawford Policy Forum

Public Policy Challenges 2010

Tuesday 16 February, 9.00am – 13.30pm

Molonglo Theatre, J G Crawford Building 132, Lennox Crossing, ANU

BIOGRAPHIES

Tom Kompas Tom is Director of the Crawford School of Economics and Government and Foundation Director of the Australian Centre for Biosecurity and Environmental Economics (AC BEE). He specialises in natural resource and environmental economics. His bioeconomic modelling and biosecurity research has been published in the world's leading international journals (including Science and PNAS) and his current work focuses on the major biosecurity issues in both Australia and internationally. Tom is also Editor of the Australian Journal of Agricultural and Resource Economics.

Frank Jotzo Frank is an environmental economist specialising in the economics and policy of climate change. He has published and advised on these and other aspects of international and development economics since 1998, including as advisor to the Garnaut Climate Change Review and recently to Indonesia's Ministry of Finance. Frank is Deputy Director of the ANU Climate Change Institute and Theme Leader Climate Change of the Environmental Economics Research Hub.

Stephen Howes Prior to joining the Crawford School, Stephen was Chief Economist at the Australian Agency for International Development. He worked from 1994 to 2005 at the World Bank, first in Washington and then in Delhi, where he was Lead Economist for India. He spent most of 2008 on the Garnaut Review on Climate Change.

Bruce Chapman Bruce is a Professor of Public Policy at the Crawford School at ANU. He is a labour and education economist and has considerable academic and practical experience with respect to the design and implementation of student loan systems, with an emphasis on income contingent arrangements.

Janine O'Flynn Janine is Director of Education in the Crawford School and her research interests are in public sector management, reform and policy. Janine leads the Crawford flagship course Government, Markets and Global Change and she teaches Case Studies in Public Sector Management. She also teaches a component of Delivering Public Value and is regularly involved in the Pacific Executive Program for the Australia and New Zealand School of Government.

R. Quentin Grafton Quentin holds a Chair in Economics, is Co-Chair of the Australian National University (ANU) Water Initiative, and is Director of the Centre for Water Economics, Environment and Policy (CWEEP) at the ANU. He is also Convenor of the Environmental and Resource Economics degrees at the Crawford School. Quentin is Editor of the Australian Journal of Agricultural and Resource Economics and currently serves on the editorial boards of the journals Environment and Development Economics, Environmental Economics, and the Canadian Journal of Agricultural Economics.

Carolyn Hendriks Carolyn's work examines the democratic practices of contemporary governance, particularly with respect to public deliberation, inclusion and political representation. She has taught and published widely on the application and politics of inclusive and deliberative forms of citizen engagement. With a background in both political science and environmental engineering, Carolyn has a particular interest in the governance of the environment, as well as science and technology issues. She has recently published a book on environmental governance in Australia (together with Harding and Faruqi), titled Environmental Decision Making: Exploring Complexity and Context (Federation Press, 2009).

Ian Buchanan Ian is Chairman of the Crawford Advisory Council, an experienced strategy consultant, and independent non Executive Director with over 35 years of leadership and advisory experience throughout the Asia Pacific Region. He is currently an Asian Advisor to Rio Tinto Alcan, IAG and CHAMP Private Equity and is also Director of The Great Barrier Reef Foundation, The Distillery and iRepublics.

RSVP by 12 February 2010. For more information, contact:

Hayley Primrose, Crawford School, Australian National University
Phone: (02) 6125 4387 Email: hayley.primrose@anu.edu.au

www.crawford.anu.edu.au

ANU COLLEGE OF ASIA & THE PACIFIC

